

16th IAMC Annual Meeting

Hilton Molino Stucky, Venice, Italy
November 14th – 16th, 2023

LOGISTICAL INFORMATION

Venice is made up of 119 islands connected to one another by various bridges and overpasses. The Ponte della Libertà connects Mestre city to Venice Piazzale Roma, a large square located right at the entrance of Venice. It is the only place that is accessible to cars and buses. The Piazzale is not particularly interesting for tourists, but it is important because if you fly to Venice and land in Marco Polo or Treviso Airport and take a bus to the heart of the city, you will arrive in this square.

The other terminal hub in Venice is Venezia Santa Lucia railway station: it is located in Venice itself on the Grand Canal, right beside Piazzale Roma. The other Venice station is Venezia Mestre, but this is located on the mainland, not in Venice itself.

Car parks are available both in Venice and Mestre, this latter hosting less expensive solutions.

Hilton has taken the lead as the first major hotel company to establish science-based carbon targets that align with climate science and the Paris Climate Agreement, gaining approval from the Science Based Targets Initiative (SBTi). To learn more about its energy, water, and waste policies, you can visit the following link: <https://esg.hilton.com/environment/>

At the Venice Hilton Molino Stucky, various sustainability practices have been implemented.

To address energy consumption and plastic usage: the hotel avoids single-use plastic bottles (except those found in minibars); sheets in the rooms are changed only upon request, reducing unnecessary laundering; plastic bottles from hygiene products are recycled by the manufacturer to create larger dispensers, and efforts are underway to transition to refillable dispensers to eliminate plastic usage; any leftover soaps are donated to support underprivileged children rather than being wasted.

In the kitchen, the hotel monitors and weighs food waste and wet waste daily, ensuring compliance with current regulations and actively working to minimize food waste.

Regarding social initiatives, the hotel collaborates with the Giudecca women's prison for laundry services, providing employment opportunities and support.

Hilton Italia also organizes activities focused on social and environmental well-being, such as beach cleaning, engaging with family homes, and participating in events at senior centres.
